Market Overview

August 2025 Market Snapshot

Index Highlights & Monthly Performance

- Nifty 50 closed at 24,426.85 on August 29 a daily loss of ~0.3%, bringing the monthly decline to ~1.4%.
- BSE Sensex ended the day at around 79,810–80,068, down ~0.34% for the session and approximately 1.7% for the month.

Market Drivers: Tariffs, Rate Hopes & External Pressures

- U.S. tariffs escalated, with an additional 25% penalty, bringing total duties to nearly 50%. This deepened investor concerns over export impacts and growth.
- These tariff fears, combined with broader weak sentiment, pushed indices into a second consecutive monthly decline.
- On the brighter side, Federal Reserve Chair Powell's comments raised expectations of a U.S. rate cut in September, which briefly lifted sentiment—particularly for IT stocks, up ~2.5%.
- However, ongoing trade tensions remain a key overhang.

Daily Market Movements & Sector Trends

Early August

 Markets faced a sustained slump, posting the longest weekly losing streak in five years by August 8, fueled by trade uncertainty and muted earnings.

Mid to Late August

August 25: Markets rallied—Sensex jumped ~200 points to top 81,571; Nifty rose to ~24,955—led by IT and Reliance, buoyed by Fed optimism.

 August 22: A pause in gains occurred as IT and financial sectors dipped, halting a six-day rally Nifty fell ~0.6% to ~24,932.

Late August Turbulence

- August 28: Markets tumbled as new punitive tariffs took effect—Nifty down 0.51% to ~24,584, Sensex down 0.59% to ~80,315. Nearly all sectors were hit.
- August 29: Initial weakness turned into some gains—Sensex rose over 100 points, Nifty crossed 24,500, led by ITC and HDFC Bank. But the day ended soft, with Nifty at ~24,488, Sensex at ~80,068, amid lingering tariff pressure and outflows.
- Foreign outflows reached USD 3.3 billion, the largest monthly exit since February, amplifying the downside pressure.
- Broader market breadth weakened, with midcap and small cap indices down ~0.5–0.6%, while consumer sectors held up slightly.

IPO Market Buzz

• Despite volatility, August saw 40 new IPOs, reflecting strong primary-market activity and investor optimism. Tata Capital topped the list of anticipated offerings.

ECONOMY NEWS

Mey Economic Headlines

1. Q1 GDP Soars to 7.8%

India's economy impressively grew by 7.8% year-over-year in the April–June quarter—the fastest pace in five quarters—well above most expectations

This broad-based growth featured robust performance across sectors:

- Services grew by over 9%
- Manufacturing and Construction each expanded around 7–8%
- Agriculture also improved with ~3.7% GVA growth

2. FY26 Growth Outlook: 6.3-6.8%

The Chief Economic Advisor (CEA) forecasts annual growth between 6.3–6.8%, attributing sustained momentum to strong domestic demand, government reforms, and festive consumption. He dismissed US tariffs as a transient concern

3. Tariff Turmoil & Export Risks

The steep 50% US tariffs imposed on Indian exports—particularly impacting textiles, gems, and leather—pose a tangible threat to trade-dependent sectors and job growth. Estimates warn of up to 1% dent in GDP if the shock persists

In response, the Indian government is pushing reforms, promoting Make-in-India products, easing consumption taxes, and expanding market access beyond the U.S.

4. Currency Weakness: Rupee Hits Record Low

Investor anxiety over tariffs and the ensuing export threat pushed the Indian rupee to a historic low of ₹88.24 per US dollar

5. Geopolitical Outlook & Business Strategy

 Mukesh Ambani urged Indian industry to unite and strengthen domestic resilience amid geopolitical headwinds, reaffirming strategic independence in energy supplies Analysts like Jim O'Neill see India's economy as resilient—firmly rooted in domestic demand and well-positioned to navigate tariff shocks

Snapshot Summary

Indicator	Current Status & Implications
GDP Growth	+7.8% YoY—broad-based strength across manufacturing, services, and
(Q1)	consumption
FY26 Projection	6.3%–6.8%—supported by domestic demand and reforms
US Tariffs	50% levy hitting export-intensive sectors—threatens export growth and job creation
Rupee	At record low, reflecting external vulnerabilities
Policy Response	Reforms, export diversification, sectoral support programs being pursued
Business	Focus on collaboration, self-reliance, and resilience amid global trade
Strategy	tensions

India's economy is off to a strong start in FY26, supported by broad-based growth. Yet, the looming tariff crisis and currency pressure warrant vigilance. The combination of domestic demand, policy reforms, and business resilience offers meaningful Defense, but much will depend on global developments and trade negotiations in the coming quarters.

Nifty Analysis

Index Snapshot

Current Nifty 50 Snapshot

- As of August 29, 2025, the Nifty 50 closed around 24,426.85, down approximately 1.4% for the month
- Over the first two trading days of the week ending August 29, the index saw a roughly 2% decline, mainly due to concerns over new U.S. tariffs on Indian exports
- On August 26, the index dropped about 0.7% amid mounting tariff worries, which erased most of the gains made during the month

Broader Market Context & Headwinds

 Foreign Portfolio Investor (FPI) outflows have been substantial, with a record $3.3 billion pulled from Indian equities in August—the highest since February. This dampened Nifty's performance despite domestic market resilience

- The ongoing U.S. tariffs—slapped on Indian goods due to its oil imports from Russia—have added pressure to export-sensitive sectors. This has weighed on investor sentiment across the broader market
- Yet, India's domestic fundamentals and strong retail participation have provided some ballast, preventing more severe corrections

Outlook & Analyst Forecasts

- Analysts foresee modest recovery ahead. A Reuters poll expects the Nifty to end the year at ~27,609 (+12.9% from current levels), underpinned by consumption-led recovery—highlighting bets on stocks like Titan, Britannia, Adani Ports, ICICI Bank
- However, expectations are muted: another Reuters poll forecasts just a 3.9% gain to 25,834 by year-end, pushing a record high into 2026. Key constraints include valuation concerns and weak earnings
- According to a BofA report, volatility could be high, with Nifty potentially swinging -11% to +4% around a 25,000 level, driven by macroeconomic uncertainties

Technical View

- The near-term trading range appears bound between 24,200 (support) and 24,800 (resistance), indicating consolidation amid indecision
- Earlier in mid-August, the index traded in a 24,594–24,747 range, with moves above or below likely signaling direction
- As of September 1 outlook, Nifty closed at 24,426.85, and technical indicators like RSI below 40 pointed to weak momentum. Key intraday swings ranged between 24,405 and 24,572. The index is nearing oversold territories

Summary Table

Category	Key Insights
Current Level	~24,427 (end-Aug 29); down ~1.4% in August
Key Headwinds	U.S. tariffs, heavy FPI outflows
Supporting Factors	Domestic investor strength, improving earnings
Analyst Outlook	Mixed: ~3.9% to ~12.9% upside by year-end
Technical Range	Support: 24,200–24,400; Resistance: 24,600–24,800

The Nifty 50 ended August under pressure, facing external headwinds from U.S. tariff actions and strong FPI outflows, even as underlying domestic strengths buffered further damage. Analysts expect modest recovery through late 2025, though volatility and cautious sentiment prevail. Key zones to watch remain 24,200–24,400 on the downside and 24,600–24,800 on the upside for signs of stabilization or breakout.

Sectors to watch in 2025

Manufacturing, Infrastructure, Defense, and Auto: Riding the Growth Wave

Concentrating on the manufacturing, infrastructure, and defense industries. In 2024, elections, severe weather, and above-normal monsoons presented challenges to activity levels in several sectors.

These industries may experience a comeback as a result of anticipated increases in private sector investment and government decision-making speed. India's manufacturing sector is anticipated to gain from the initiatives of the next US government. Because they have the potential to yield consistent rewards, we also express trust in healthcare and discretionary spending.

A solid basis for expansion in the cement and construction sectors is provided by India's ambitious National Infrastructure Pipeline, which is estimated to be worth USD 1.4 trillion, and other infrastructure-focused programs. Premiumization in the auto industry is also growing.

Healthcare, Renewable Energy, and Real Estate: Resilient Growth Narratives

Renewable energy and healthcare stand out as two industries with great potential for 2025. healthcare's durability, as evidenced by its 21.2 percent annual earnings growth driven by both worldwide demand and new innovations. As India's power demand rises due to sustainability goals and clean energy programs, renewable energy is also expected to develop significantly.

Another industry to keep an eye on is real estate, especially the residential and commercial sectors. thinks the post-COVID rebound and urbanization will propel this industry's expansion.

Technology, Chemicals, and Financial Services: Tapping into New Opportunities

Technology sector, with an emphasis on developments in 5G connectivity, cybersecurity, and artificial intelligence that have the potential to completely transform companies.

The US-China trade conflict may help the chemical industry, which has underperformed in recent years. According to Anchal Kansal, Research Analyst at Green Portfolio, Indian producers are in a good position to satisfy demand from around the world, which could spur expansion in this market.

Meanwhile, because of India's fintech surge, financial services continue to be a compelling investment opportunit
