Stock exchanges does not provide or purport to provide any advice and shall not be liable to any person who enters into any business relationship with any stock broker of Stock exchanges and/or any third party based on any information contained in this document. Any information contained in this document must not be construed as business advice. No consideration to trade should be made without thoroughly understanding and reviewing the risks involved in such trading. If you are unsure, you must seek professional advice on the same.

In considering whether to trade or authorize someone to trade for you, you should be aware of or must get acquainted with the following:-

I. BASIC RISKS:

I.1 Risk of Higher Volatility:

Volatility refers to the dynamic changes in price that a security/ derivatives contract undergoes when trading activity continues on the Stock Exchanges. Generally, higher the volatility of a security/derivatives contract, greater is its price swings. There may be normally greater volatility in thinly traded securities / derivatives contracts than in active securities /derivatives contracts. As a result of volatility, your order may only be partially executed or not executed at all, or the price at which your order got executed may be substantially different from the last traded price or change substantially thereafter, resulting in notional or real losses.

I.2 Risk of Lower Liquidity:

Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and/or sell securities / derivatives contracts expeditiously at a competitive price and with minimal price difference. Generally, it is assumed that more the numbers of orders available in a market, greater is the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity, it is easier for investors to buy and/or sell securities / derivatives contracts swiftly and with minimal price difference, and as a result, investors are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for securities / derivatives contracts purchased or sold. There may be a risk of lower liquidity in some securities / derivatives contracts as compared to active securities / derivatives contracts. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or may be executed with relatively greater price difference or may not be executed at all.

I.2.1 Buying or selling securities / derivatives contracts as part of a day trading strategy may also result into losses, because in such a situation, securities / derivatives contracts may have to be sold / purchased at low / high prices, compared to the expected price levels, so as not to have any open position or obligation to deliver or receive a security / derivatives contract.

I.3 Risk of Wider Spreads:

Spread refers to the difference in best buy price and best sell price. It represents the differential between the price of buying a security / derivatives contract and immediately selling it or vice versa. Lower liquidity and higher volatility may result in wider than normal spreads for less liquid or illiquid securities / derivatives contracts. This in turn will hamper better price formation.

I.4 Risk-reducing orders:

The placing of orders (e.g., “stop loss” orders, or “limit” orders) which are intended to limit losses to certain amounts may not be effective many a time because rapid movement in market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders.

1.4.1 A “market” order will be executed promptly, subject to availability of orders on opposite side, without regard to price and that, while the customer may receive a prompt execution of a “market” order, the execution may be at available prices of outstanding orders, which satisfy the order quantity, on price time priority. It may be understood that these prices may be significantly different from the last traded price or the best price in that security / derivatives contract.

1.4.2 A “limit” order will be executed only at the “limit” price specified for the order or a better price. However, while the customer receives price protection, there is a possibility that the order may not be executed at all.

1.4.3 A stop loss order is generally placed “away” from the current price of a stock / derivatives contract, and such order gets activated if and when the security / derivatives contract reaches, or trades through, the stop price. Sell stop orders are entered ordinarily below the current price, and buy stop orders are entered ordinarily above the current price. When the security / derivatives contract reaches the pre-determined price, or trades through such price, the stop loss order converts to a market/limit order and is executed at the limit or better. There is no assurance therefore that the limit order will be executable since a security / derivatives contract might penetrate the pre-determined price, in which case, the risk of such order not getting executed arises, just as with a regular limit order.

1.5 Risk of News Announcements:

News announcements that may impact the price of stock / derivatives contract may occur during trading, and when combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility, may suddenly cause an unexpected positive or negative movement in the price of the security / contract.

1.6 Risk of Rumors:

Rumors about companies / currencies at times float in the market through word of mouth, newspapers, websites or news agencies, etc. The investors should be wary of and should desist from acting on rumors.

1.7 System Risk:

High volume trading will frequently occur at the market opening and before market close. Such high volumes may also occur at any point in the day. These may cause delays in order execution or confirmation.

1.7.1 During periods of volatility, on account of market participants continuously modifying their order quantity or prices or placing fresh orders, there may be delays in order execution and its confirmations.

1.7.2 Under certain market conditions, it may be difficult or impossible to liquidate a position in the market at a reasonable price or at all, when there are no outstanding orders either on the buy side or the sell side, or if trading is halted in a security / derivatives contract due to any action on account of unusual trading activity or security / derivatives contract hitting circuit filters or for any other reason.

1.8 System/Network Congestion:

Trading on exchanges is in electronic mode, based on satellite/leased line based communications, combination of technologies and computer systems to place and route orders. Thus, there exists a possibility of communication failure or system problems or slow or delayed response from system or trading halt, or any such other problem/glitch whereby not being able to establish access to the trading system/network, which may be beyond control and may result in delay in processing or not processing buy or sell orders either in part or in full. You are cautioned to note that although these problems may be temporary in nature, but when you have outstanding open positions or unexecuted orders, these represent a risk because of your obligations to settle all executed transactions.

2. As far as Derivatives segments are concerned, please note and get yourself acquainted with the following additional features:-

2.1 Effect of “Leverage” or “Gearing”:

In the derivatives market, the amount of margin is small relative to the value of the derivatives contract so the transactions are ‘leveraged’ or ‘geared’. Derivatives trading, which is conducted with a relatively small amount of margin, provides the possibility of great profit or loss in comparison with the margin amount. But transactions in derivatives carry a high degree of risk.

You should therefore completely understand the following statements before actually trading in derivatives and also trade with caution while taking into account one’s circumstances, financial resources, etc. If the prices move against you, you may lose a part of or whole margin amount in a relatively short period of time. Moreover, the loss may exceed the original margin amount.

- A. Futures trading involve daily settlement of all positions. Every day the open positions are marked to market based on the closing level of the index / derivatives contract. If the contract has moved against you, you will be required to deposit the amount of loss (notional) resulting from such movement. This amount will have to be paid within a stipulated time frame, generally before commencement of trading on next day.
- B. If you fail to deposit the additional amount by the deadline or if an outstanding debt occurs in your account, the stock broker may liquidate a part of or the whole position or substitute securities. In this case, you will be liable for any losses incurred due to such close-outs.
- C. Under certain market conditions, an investor may find it difficult or impossible to execute transactions. For example, this situation can occur due to factors such as illiquidity i.e. when there are insufficient bids or offers or suspension of trading due to price limit or circuit breakers etc.

- D. In order to maintain market stability, the following steps may be adopted: changes in the margin rate, increases in the cash margin rate or others. These new measures may also be applied to the existing open interests. In such conditions, you will be required to put up additional margins or reduce your positions.
- E. You must ask your broker to provide the full details of derivatives contracts you plan to trade i.e. the contract specifications and the associated obligations.

2.2 Currency specific risks:

1. The profit or loss in transactions in foreign currency-denominated contracts, whether they are traded in your own or another jurisdiction, will be affected by fluctuations in currency rates where there is a need to convert from the currency denomination of the contract to another currency.
2. Under certain market conditions, you may find it difficult or impossible to liquidate a position. This can occur, for example when a currency is deregulated or fixed trading bands are widened.
3. Currency prices are highly volatile. Price movements for currencies are influenced by, among other things: changing supply-demand relationships; trade, fiscal, monetary, exchange control programs and policies of governments; foreign political and economic events and policies; changes in national and international interest rates and inflation; currency devaluation; and sentiment of the market place. None of these factors can be controlled by any individual advisor and no assurance can be given that an advisor's advice will result in profitable trades for a participating customer or that a customer will not incur losses from such events.

2.3 Risk of Option holders:

1. An option holder runs the risk of losing the entire amount paid for the option in a relatively short period of time. This risk reflects the nature of an option as a wasting asset which becomes worthless when it expires. An option holder who neither sells his option in the secondary market nor exercises it prior to its expiration will necessarily lose his entire investment in the option. If the price of the underlying does not change in the anticipated direction before the option expires, to an extent sufficient to cover the cost of the option, the investor may lose all or a significant part of his investment in the option.
2. The Exchanges may impose exercise restrictions and have absolute authority to restrict the exercise of options at certain times in specified circumstances.

2.4 Risks of Option Writers:

1. If the price movement of the underlying is not in the anticipated direction, the option writer runs the risks of losing substantial amount.

2. The risk of being an option writer may be reduced by the purchase of other options on the same underlying interest and thereby assuming a spread position or by acquiring other types of hedging positions in the options markets or other markets. However, even where the writer has assumed a spread or other hedging position, the risks may still be significant. A spread position is not necessarily less risky than a simple 'long' or 'short' position.
3. Transactions that involve buying and writing multiple options in combination, or buying or writing options in combination with buying or selling short the underlying interests, present additional risks to investors. Combination transactions, such as option spreads, are more complex than buying or writing a single option. And it should be further noted that, as in any area of investing, a complexity not well understood is, in itself, a risk factor. While this is not to suggest that combination strategies should not be considered, it is advisable, as is the case with all investments in options, to consult with someone who is experienced and knowledgeable with respect to the risks and potential rewards of combination transactions under various market circumstances.

3. TRADING THROUGH WIRELESS TECHNOLOGY/ SMART ORDER ROUTING OR ANY OTHER TECHNOLOGY:

Any additional provisions defining the features, risks, responsibilities, obligations and liabilities associated with securities trading through wireless technology/ smart order routing or any other technology should be brought to the notice of the client by the stock broker.

B. Setting up the Constituents exposure limits

While setting up the exposure limits for and on behalf of the constituents, MNCL broadly takes into consideration the regulatory requirement, constituent profile, internal risk management policy, market conditions, etc. Considering the said parameters the exposure limit for a constituent would be set up as follows:

- Exposure limits to the constituent will be provided based on the available margin in the constituent's broking account maintained with MNCL.
- The exposure limit will be a certain multiple of the available margin. Such multiplier will be as decided by MNCL from time to time and may vary from constituent to constituent.
- On a case-to-case basis MNCL, at its sole and absolute discretion, may allow higher exposure limits to the constituent.
- In case of cash segment, MNCL may at its sole and absolute discretion allow clean exposure limits up to certain amount to the constituent without insisting for any credit balance and/or margin. The quantum of clean exposure limit shall be decided by MNCL. On a case-to-case basis MNCL may, at its sole and absolute discretion, give higher clean exposure limits to certain set of the constituents. MNCL reserves the right to withdraw clean exposure limit granted to the constituent at any point of time at its sole and absolute discretion. The constituent cannot raise any concern/dispute for the same.
- Available margin for the purpose of granting exposure is calculated as a sum of free credit balance of the constituent in MNCL's books, margin in the form of funds, securities, of the constituent available with MNCL, and the value of securities held in the constituent's demat account for which power of attorney is granted in favor of MNCL.
- The choice of the securities to be considered as margin shall be determined by MNCL at its sole discretion from time to time and the constituent shall abide by the same.
- While granting the exposure limit, margin in the form of securities will be valued as per the latest available closing price on NSE or BSE after applying appropriate haircut as may be decided by MNCL at its sole discretion.
- MNCL may from time to time depending on market conditions, profile and history of the constituent, types and nature of scrip, etc. at its sole discretion charge/change the rate of haircut applicable on the securities given as margin, multiplier for granting exposure in Cash/F&O segments and take such steps as MNCL may deem fit and appropriate.
- The Constituent will have to abide by the exposure limit set by MNCL.

C. Applicable Brokerage Rate

MNCL shall recover such imposed penalties/ levies, if any, by the Exchange / regulators, from the constituent which arise on account of dealings by such constituent. Few of the examples of violations for which penalties may be levied are as follows:

- Auction of securities pursuant to short deliveries by the constituent;
- Short margin reporting in F&O Segment;
- Any other reasons which may be specified by the Exchanges/ Clearing Corporation/ SEBI from time to time.

Such recovery would be by way of debit in the ledger of the constituent and amounts would be adjusted against the dues.

Delayed payment charges are only a penal measure. The constituent should not construe it as funding arrangement. The constituent cannot demand continuation of service on a permanent basis citing levy of delayed payment charges

"Without prejudice to its other rights and remedies available under the member constituent document (s) executed/to be executed by and between the constituent and MNCL (hereinafter referred to as "the Document") or at law, MNCL shall be entitled, in its sole and absolute discretion, to liquidate/close out all or any of the constituent's open/outstanding position, sell the constituent's securities (whether approved by MNCL or not) available with MNCL and/or held in the constituent's demat account for which power of attorney is granted in favor of MNCL at any time to recover its dues without giving any notice to the constituent in the following circumstances."

- a. If the constituent fails to pay any margin, settlement obligations and/or other liabilities (including but not limited to DP charges) due to MNCL within the stipulated time frame;
- b. In the event that the market value of the constituent's securities, lying as margin or

The MNCL reserves the right to set the threshold limits for liquidation of constituents positions. Such threshold limits will be communicated from time to time orally, and or through emails, or through its trading terminals, branch representatives etc.

However in the event of extreme volatility and or constituents open (outstanding) position resulting in mark to market losses beyond MNCL's threshold anytime during the trading session, and or constituents positions or collateral being not saleable, thereby forcing MNCL liquidate any of the constituents available positions and collateral, same shall be done by MNCL during the course of a trading session without recourse to the constituent.

Any and all losses (actual), financial charges, damages on account of such liquidation/sell/closing- out shall be borne by the constituent only.

F. Shortages in obligations arising out of internal netting of trades

MNCL has right to allocate securities / credits amongst the constituents and other constituents of MNCL in a manner and form that MNCL deems fit where MNCL has net purchase obligations with the exchange but receives short delivery from the exchange and the exchange is able to deliver to the MNCL only in part after the auction settlement and part is closed out by the exchange as per exchange rules.

In the event of the constituent unable to deliver securities against his/her/its sale obligation, the MNCL shall have the express authority to close out the transaction of the said securities in question to meet the obligation of the MNCL to the exchange or the MNCL's other constituents arising out of such failure of the constituent, without further reference to the constituent. The constituent shall be fully responsible for any losses/ charges sustained by MNCL, as a result of above failure.

G. Conditions under which the constituent may not be allowed to take further position or MNCL may close the existing position of the constituent.

An illustrative list of circumstances in which MNCL may not allow the constituent to take further positions or may close/liquidate a part of or whole of the existing position of the constituent are as follows:

- Failure by the constituent in providing sufficient/adequate margin (s) and/or insufficient/inadequate free credit balance available in constituents' broking account with MNCL;
- If the constituent fails to deposit the margin/additional margin by the deadline or if an outstanding debt occurs in the Constituents' brokerage account with MNCL beyond the stipulated time period;
- If the constituent fails to maintain the requisite margin in such form and manner as may be specified by MNCL from time to time;
- Settlement obligations are not paid by the constituent within the time frame allowed by the Exchanges or as per the norms specified by MNCL from time to time as its sole and absolute discretion;
- Securities falling in the category of Penny Stocks/ Illiquid Stocks/ Contract/ Options as described in policy (b) above;
- Trades which apparently in the sole and absolute discretion of MNCL seems to be Synchronized trades/ Circular trading/ Artificial trading/ manipulative in nature, etc.;
- Securities/F&O contracts banned by the regulatory authorities;
- Any ban imposed on the constituent by the regulatory authorities;
- Where name of the constituent apparently resembles with the name appearing in the list of

- debarred entities published by SEBI/Exchanges (where the information available for the debarred entity (other than name) is not sufficient enough to establish that the constituent and such debarred entity are one and the same);
- The constituent fails to furnish documents/information as may be called for by MNCL from time to time as per regulatory requirement and/or as per its internal policy.
- In the event of death or insolvency of the constituent otherwise becoming incapable of receiving and paying for or delivering or transferring securities which the constituent has ordered to be bought or sold;
- Depending on the market circumstances if MNCL is of the view that the positions of the constituents are at risk then MNCL may close the existing position without waiting for the pay-in schedule of the Exchanges.

MNCL may take the action under this policy with/without giving any notice or intimation to the constituent. MNCL will not be responsible for any opportunity loss or financial loss to the constituent in the event any action taken by it under this policy.

H. Temporary suspending or closing constituent's broking account at constituent's request

A Constituent who wishes to temporarily suspend or close his/her/its broking account can do so by submitting a written request or by email (through email id registered with MNCL) in the form and format as may be prescribed by MNCL. The request has to be submitted to the head office of MNCL. Constituent may be temporarily / permanently suspended on account of gravity of grievance raised by / against constituent.

Prior to submission of such request the constituent should ensure that all amounts due and payable to MNCL are paid. Requests from a constituent where no dues are outstanding would be processed within 3 working days from the date of receipt of the request.

I. Dormant Account Policy

NOTE ON PMLA

Dear Investor!!

Subject: Prevention of Money Laundering

Money laundering is a process of making dirty money clean. Money is moved around the financial system again and again in such manner that its origin gets hidden.

It involves complex chain of activities whereby huge amount of money generated from illegitimate activities viz. selling of narcotic drugs, extortion, corruption, illicit dealing in weapons, human trafficking, etc. is put through a series of process so that it comes out at the other end as clean and legal money. Terrorist organizations encourage money laundering to support their illegal acts.

It is important to note that due to increased vigilance in the wake of threats emanating from increasing terrorism, any failure on our part to discharge the duties cast on us under the applicable laws or we becoming an instrumental or a part of the chain, even if unknowingly or ignorantly, may invite the trouble.

In order to fight against the money laundering and terrorist financing the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) was brought into force w.e.f. July 1, 2005 in India.
